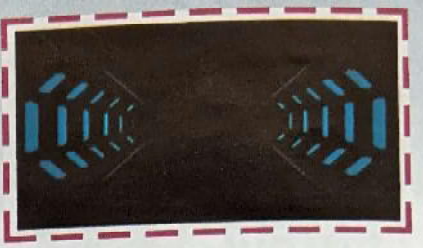
BUILT FOR BATTLE



Three untried warriors sit with unnatural stillness, in total darkness, waiting. Suddenly the door to the lab slams open. Outlined against the light is Mulk, leader of the resistance. He has a dozen wounds, but his eyes burn with strength and unfailing purpose. Mulk staggers to a nearby control panel and begins throwing switches and pushing buttons. The lab hums with electrical noise as the lights come up. Though Mulk falls to his knees, weak from his wounds, he reaches up one last time and slams his fist down on a glowing pad. Behind him, three beings, who appear to be human, slowly rise to their feet. They study themselves and each other, then examine the room. Mulk turns to put his back against the console and says in a painful whisper, "You three are our last hope. Banglar has destroyed nearly all of my forces. I have programmed you to seek him out and end his tyranny. You must penetrate the defenses and battle his troops. Ah! If only I had been given the time to test you! But go--go quickly before it's too late to save any of us."
